chot inquiry Saturday, and James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior and another prominent member of the Roosevelt "tennis cabinet" took the stand only fairly stand. Mr. Garfield had only fairly stand, Mr. Garfield had only fairly stand, Mr. Garfield had only fairly stand. Mr. Garfield had only fairly stand. Mr. Garfield had only fairly stands of the component was taken until Thursday.

Pinchot summed up the "inferences" he desired to have the committee draw from the documents previously introduced in cridence and from statements most disagreeable experience. He was irritated by the tactics of counsel in go-ing over the same ground again and Now to his resigned that honorable

Pinchot charged Mr. Ballinger with "will, regularly to the legislature, first as asfol deception of the president," owing to a possible misstatement made upon information furnished by others, whereas, Mr. Pinchot, in defanding himself for having made misstatemerts to the president, likewise on information of othegs, declared he merely made "simple mistakes."

During the hour and a half he was on the stand yesterday, Mr. Garfield went into a history of the administration of the affairs of the department of the interior, especially with respect to the withdrawal of lands opataining water power sites. He declared there was no whose no dealing in the dark

Mr. Garfield insisted the supervisory power of the executive to withdraw and hold lunds from entry existed from the beginning of the government and was an inherent right vested in the president as custodian of public property. As to the charge that the power site withdrawals were too large, Mr. Garfield said he thought a great mistake was made in not making some of them larger.

TRAINING FOR UMPIRES.

Few Suggestions Made For Sensit of Arbitrators. The suggestion that the umpires go south like the ball players and get in shape for the big league season has brought forth the following from one of the fans who doesn't overlook any-

"In this circuit next season an arbitrator is going to need to step the buff mile in about fiftyfive seconds and be able to continue the same pace the Marathen route if he has pulled off a particularly raw decision.

"High hurdling should also be a part of the spring training. The average fence height of the parks is about eight feet. The arbitrator should be able to clear this, taking off on either foot, and do the 100 yards to the fence in about nine seconds flat.

"Shadow boxing would play an important part in the training if it was done right. Whenever an ump gets so he can dodge his shadow and leave it intact ten feet away from him and come track and join if before it can overtake him he will be in pretty fair condition to hear the whiz of a pop bottle and best it out of the way before it dents his dome.

"He should also get his feet so well pickled in brine and formaits that be can smile when one of our peevish mastd pets staks his spikes through his shoes in the midst of any little alry persiffage that may be bandled about the ball yard."
